

Final Brinks Gang Fugitives Seized by FBI

Two Caught Flat-
Footed as Agents
Raid Apartment

BOSTON (AP) — The last two Brinks gang fugitives who were captured in a surprise FBI raid, faced arraignment today for their part in the largest cash robbery in the nation's history.

James I. Faherty, 45, and Thomas F. Richardson, 49, were seized in a Dorchester flat Wednesday night as they listened to the radio.

The last two members of the Halloween-masked gang that executed the $1,219,000 holdup six years ago were caught flat-footed.

A score of agents armed with sub-machine guns, tear gas bombs, rifles and revolvers burst through the door of the two-room flat before the fugitives could go for their guns.

The radio-directed raid was over in minutes and tenants of the three-story apartment building didn't realize until later that two of the FBI's "10 most wanted men" had been in their midst for weeks.

Faherty and Richardson had eluded the FBI last Jan. 12, when simultaneous raids throughout greater Boston netted six suspects and "broke" the case.

Agents found $5,009.08 in rolled coin hidden in empty beer cartons in the bedroom of a flat. In the bathroom, under a towel and on a chair near the window, they found three loaded revolvers.

The capture brought to 10 the men now in custody for the fabulous holdup at the Brink's counting house garage in the North End Jan. 17, 1950.

Eight suspects, including Joseph (Specs) O'Keefe, who "sang" about his confederates, have been arraigned and are held in county jails around the state awaiting trial. The 11th man accused of the robbery, Joseph S. Banfield, is dead.

Wiley Opponent Faces Charges In Wisconsin

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — Charges that Mark Catlin Jr., speaker of the Wisconsin Assembly and senatorial hopeful, peddled his influence among penitentiary convicts shook Wisconsin politics today.

They immediately raised speculation on how Catlin's drive to win the Republican senatorial nomination from Sen. Alexander Wiley will be affected.

The charges were brought Wednesday by the State Board of Bar Commissioners. Minutes after he heard of them, Catlin was informed that his father, football great Mark Catlin Sr., 73, had died of a heart attack at his native Appleton.

Friends of the senior Catlin said they did not think he had heard of the charges against his son.

Son Denies Charges

Catlin hurried off to Appleton after issuing a categorical denial of the charges and calling them "character assassination." He said he would not get out of the race against Wiley.

Catlin, 45, is regarded as the strongest of three Republican candidates trying to unseat Wisconsin's senior senator. The show-down will come May 25, when the GOP state convention starts deliberating which candidate gets its endorsement.

Catlin was accused of accepting a total of $5,725 from relatives of state prison inmates and leading them to believe he could get them pardons or paroles.

The charges are now in the hands of the state Supreme Court, which will appoint a referee to take evidence, including a statement from Catlin within 20 days. No final action is expected before the state convention meets.

Postal Rate Hikes Approved By House Group

WASHINGTON (AP) — A penny increase in letter postage — from three to four cents — won tentative approval today from the House Post Office Committee.

The group also voted to boost the airmail rate from six to seven cents.

President Eisenhower has been seeking the increases, along with hikes in second and third class mail, for the past two years as one means of helping wipe out the annual postal deficit of some 400 million dollars.

Other developments:

Foreign aid: The House Foreign Affairs Committee dealt the President two more setbacks on his foreign aid requests. Rejecting his bid for power to make long-range economic aid commitments to U. S. allies, it adopted instead a non-binding policy statement that the United States would continue its foreign aid program as long as it is needed to combat Soviet imperialism and Communist infiltration. The committee also rejected his request for a 100 million dollar fund to be used at his discretion for emergency economic aid in the Middle East, and lumped into a single 100 million dollar fund his request for 100 million dollars each for Asia and the Middle East.

Farm Bill: The Senate opened debate on its revised version of President Eisenhower's $1,200,000 "soil bank" farm bill.

Highways: Secretary of Treasury George M. Humphrey warned the Senate Finance Committee that the Democratic-sponsored highway construction bill could postpone the day when taxpayers can expect a general cut in income taxes.

Espionage: Senate investigators disclosed that a Russian refugee, who uses the assumed name of E. Andriyev, claims that he saw "thousands" of top-secret U. S. radar documents while in Moscow during World War II. He testified secretly before the Senate Internal Security subcommittee.

McKee Receives $9,000 Judgment For Auto Injuries

Jim McKee, former Harrisburg high school teacher who now is a member of the Centralia high school faculty, received a $9,000 judgment for injuries in Franklin county circuit court at Benton late yesterday.

McKee, Robert Jones, and Harold Guard were injured and Larry Spott was killed March 19, 1955, when the group was returning from St. Louis and McKee's car figured in a collision on the blacktop road between Christopher and Sesser with one driven by Mrs. Gertrude Marcus.

McKee was found not guilty of negligence in a counter-complaint filed by the defendant in the lawsuit.

McKee was represented by Atty. Glen O. Jones of Raleigh. Cases involving young Spott, Jones and Guard, who were HTHS students, have been disposed of.

Mr. Gunter and his son, Bobby Gene, 22, were returning from the Studebaker factory in South Bend with a new automobile. They operate the Studebaker garage in Benton.

The father was driving when he suffered the attack. His son, seated next to him, had noticed that the car had gone off the edge of the pavement and started to question his father when he slumped over into his arms. The car went off into a ditch and crashed into a tree. Mr. Gunter suffered a head injury in the collision and it was not certain if he had died from the heart attack or the injury. Bobby suffered slight injuries in the crash.

The special election was decided upon at a meeting of the village board Tuesday night.

Plans are to get the water supply from the wells in the reunion grounds. It is believed there is sufficient water in the present wells to supply the town.

Residents will vote on the issuance of $100,000 in water revenue bonds and $20,000 in general obligation bonds to finance the installation of the system.

Jeanne Crain's Divorce Charges Shock to Hubby

HOLLYWOOD — Paul Brinkman said today he was "deeply shocked" at the "wild-irresponsible and untrue" accusations by film beauty Jeanne Crain that he beat her up.

The handsome manufacturer's famous wife ripped the veil from their 11-year marriage Wednesday by charging in an amended divorce complaint that their home life was not as peaceful as the fan magazines had claimed.

Brinkman announced therefore he "had no choice" but to sue her next week for divorce on his own charges, indicating the battle may turn into Hollywood's liveliest divorce fight in years.

Miss Crain complained in her suit that Brinkman once resorted to cave-man love tactics. When she looked him out of her bedroom, she stated, he knocked the door down and beat her head against the bed until she submitted to him.

She claimed he often beat her, once so severely that she was hospitalized for several days.

But Brinkman insisted he hoped for reconciliation.

"I'm deeply grieved over the impact these charges will have on our four children," Brinkman said.

Brinkman admitted he and Miss Crain had "certain disputes concerning her mother." But he charged his mother-in-law was being "hostile" to him and was "trying to break up the marriage."

Forced to Choose Between Husband And Son, Wife Will Go With Male

CHICAGO (AP) — A judge told Mrs. Irene Hrabak Gause, 32, to choose between her son and her husband. She chose her husband.

Mrs. Gause, in obtaining a divorce from her former husband, gained custody of her son Michael. A year ago she married Jaroslav Gause, an engineer.

Now Gause's firm is transferring him to Glasgow, Scotland. The couple planned to take Michael, now 9, along, but Mrs. Gause's former husband intervened.

The ex-husband, salesman William Hrabak, said he had the right to visit his son. These rights would be violated if Michael went to Scotland, he said.

Judge George M. Fisher ruled that Mrs. Gause "must choose whether she is to desert her new husband and remain behind with the boy or go with her new husband and make a success of that marriage."

"The court is powerless to grant the petition to take the boy to England."

Mrs. Gause first made sure her ex-husband would give up Michael to her when she returns from Scotland, probably in a year. Then she announced she would follow her husband.

She maintained her composure in court, but burst into tears the moment she left.

Senators Kefauver, Lehman Hit Sale of Arms to Saudi Arabia

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Estes Kefauver today denounced the Eisenhower administration for authorizing a shipment of munitions to Saudi Arabia.

The Tennessee Democrat, a candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination, said the shipment "can only serve to further upset the precarious balance of arms in the Middle East."

The shipment also was criticized by Sen. Herbert H. Lehman and Rep. Emanuel Celler, both Democrats of New York.

To Demand Inquiry

Lehman said in a statement that he is "going to demand the fullest inquiry into this shocking action on the part of our government." He said "at the same time that our government refuses to make arms available to Israel — on the flimsiest of justifications — we continue to ship arms to Saudi Arabia."

Celler said in a statement that the shipment "highlights the dangerous, impossible and contradictory position" of the administration in supplying arms to Arab nations while denying them to Israel.

But despite the congressional criticism, administration officials defended the shipment from South Port, N. C., of $850,000 worth of ammunition and replacement parts for Saudi Arabia.

They said that Israel is receiving communications and other equipment of defensive use from the United States valued at "considerably more than the shipment going to Saudi Arabia."

No Specific Evaluation

There was no specific evaluation put on shipments to Israel. But officials said some equipment in

Says Military No Substitute For Stability

Asian Statesman
Addresses Joint
Session of Congress

WASHINGTON (AP) — Indonesian President Sukarno warned today that the United States must put more emphasis on economic and political assistance for free nations or face "bitterness, disillusionment, and strained relations."

In a ringing speech before a joint session of Congress, the 53-year-old Asian statesman said bluntly that "military aid is no substitute for Asian stability" for it makes nations more "dependent upon America" and reduces their values as "partners in the universal struggle for liberty."

"We will accept with the greatest appreciation any assistance that may come to us from whatever quarter it may come," he declared. "But we are determined that no material advantage will buy from us any part of our hard-won freedom."

Sukarno pleaded with the congressmen to understand that Indonesia and other Asian peoples are struggling to win their freedom and to overthrow colonialism much as the United States did 180 years ago.

No Swing to Communism

"Nationalism . . . is the main-spring of our efforts," he said. "Fail to understand it and no amount of thinking, no torrent of words, and no Niagara of dollars will produce anything but bitterness and disillusionment."

Indonesia, the world's third largest republic, has been a neutral in the East-West struggle. At times, some experts have expressed fear that it might swing toward communism. But Sukarno emphatically denied this.

"Have no doubts about democracy in Indonesia, Mr. Speaker," he said. "Even in the most difficult years immediately after the recognition of sovereignty, we were able to guard the unity of our country."

Sukarno also pledged his country's full support for "every action taken by you, or the responsible leaders of any country, to remove the shadow of the atom bomb from this world."

"After an atomic war," he said, "there would be no Resurrection. Certainly we cannot let things slide and trust to luck that no megalomaniac will press the fateful trigger."

Admitted Slayer of Two Small Boys Tells How He Machine-Gunned GIs

PANAMA CITY, Fla. (AP) — The confessed slayer of two small brothers told newsmen Wednesday night how he turned his machine gun on fellow GIs during a fierce World War II battle.

The bizarre story told by Dallas Withers, 33, is backed up by lie detector tests, Sheriff M. J. Daffin said.

Withers, confined to a secret out-of-town jail because of high feeling over the deaths of David and Douglas Wilson, spilled out details of how he machine-gunned American troops in Germany early in 1945.

"I've got nothing to lose," he told newsmen. "I want to clear my conscience."

Daffin said lie detector tests appeared to verify Withers' confession of drowning David, 7, and Douglas, 4, by tossing them from his boat last May 1, and also his account of the battlefield episode.

However, chief investigator Floyd D. Nixon said that while he believed the drowning story because of supporting evidence, he considered the story of the machine gun incident "a lie."

"I don't know how many I killed," Withers told reporters visiting his cell. "I don't know why I did it."

He said that while a member of Company D, 304th Infantry Regiment, 76th Infantry Division, he was supporting a squad of riflemen deployed 300 yards ahead of him during a night bombardment. He said he deliberately lowered the sights of his gun and opened fire. Casualties from the enemy bombardment were so great that if the shots by chance hit any of the Americans the U. S. would never realize it, Withers said.

XXIX
Lisa sat at the far end of the table and looked over at the four pairs of grim eyes fixed on her. The candle on the center of the table cast a dancing shadow on the bare walls of the room.

Three of the men she had known since childhood. Only the strange, stony Dr. Harry Thackeray was new to her.

"It was impossible to stop him," she cried.

Papa-Panos, the priest, his beard now gray. Huge, moon-faced Michalis, the union organizer, who wore the scowl of an angry lion. Gentle, scholarly Thanassis, the professor at the university. Michalis' hamlike fist pounded on the table and the candle bounced. "Why didn't you follow him?" he roared.

Lisa did not answer. "Lisa," Dr. Thackeray said, "you were under orders to kill him in the event something like this happened. Do you realize the consequences if he falls into German hands?"

Her mouth was dry. She closed her eyes and licked her parched lips. "I do not hide that I love him!"

Papa-Panos, the priest, had sat listening quietly. He stroked the end of his beard. At last he spoke in his high-pitched voice that never failed to carry authority. "Thanassis—Michalis—Dr. Thackeray—I seriously wonder if all of us are not wrong about Morrison. Would it not be wise that we all just forget about him?"

"Are you insane, Father?"

"Do not raise your voice to me, Michalis. You are not speaking in a union hall. Suppose Morrison does escape. Suppose he does turn the names over to the British. Have any of you thought what would happen then? It means we will be compelled to act on their information. And, gentlemen, we cannot expect the Germans to sit by idly. They will retaliate in triple measure."

"Bah," Michalis grumbled. He leaned over the table and pointed his finger almost into Papa-Panos' beard. "Are we receiving milk and honey from the Germans now? Only yesterday the Nazi butchers massacred a hundred civilians in Crete."

Thanassis interrupted. "As much as I love and respect you, Father, I must agree with Michalis. Passive resistance has proved fruitless. The cities and the hills are angry and our people will fight."

"And do you agree with them, Dr. Thackeray?"

The bony-faced man remained silent for many moments. "I do not choose sides," he finally said. "We know that the British will establish a mission here when they receive the Stergiou list. It means that we must organize and act on information about arms shipments, train schedules, submarines. . . . It means the British will ship in arms to help us carry out missions. We know, too, that the Germans will destroy villages and cities and kill our citizens for every act we commit against them. What is our gain? If we become strong—if we can place enough pressure on the Germans, they will be forced to keep their troops here and will not be able to release them for fighting on the main fronts. Neither you nor I can stop the Greek people from striking back. Truly, Papa-Panos, the hills are angry."

The priest sighed. He knew these men spoke the truth. Greece was destined for a blood bath that would make all the ancient tragedies trivial by comparison. "Very well, we will spare no expense in finding the American and getting him out of the country."

Then the four of them turned to Lisa. Her lips were white. She arose slowly and spoke. "Before you make a decision, there is more I must tell you now."

In slow, deliberate words, Lisa unfolded her story beginning with the day that the Gestapo had picked her up and taken her to Konrad Heiser. The four men looked shocked. Then she told of the weeks of terror and ended her story at the point where Morrison had dashed from the apartment at Sataviandou, 125.

She asked no mercy. The men sat in horrified silence. Lisa walked straight and proud to the door. "I shall wait in the next room," she said.

Through the paper-thin walls she heard Michalis pound his fist on the table. "Lisa Kyriakides is a traitor!"

Thanassis shook his head in disbelief. His studious appearance belied the fact that he was one of the most daring men in the movement. "Lisa—I can't believe it. I have known her since she was a girl of 16. She was a student of mine."

"I too have known her and her family for many years," Michalis said. "We cannot let sentimentalism rule us." He had dealt too long with too many of those who played both sides.

"It seems we have no choice," Thanassis said. "But I will not be the man to pull the trigger."

Thackeray said nothing. This was not his matter. "If she was a traitor, would she have told us her story?" Papa-Panos said. "Hasn't this woman had enough sorrow to bear? Surely, Michalis, you must realize that if she had treason in her heart she could have the wealth of Athens at her feet. You seem to forget she only did this to protect the lives of her two sons."

"I am the father of a son also," Michalis said. "I speak to you as a man who loves him as I love life itself. I would rather see him in his grave than see his father become a collaborator."

"Yes, Michalis," Papa-Panos answered. "Perhaps you would see your son in his grave. But tell me something, would your wife?"

Named were: Sandra Hough, West Frankfort high school; John Steh, Herrin high school; and George Rolando, Du Quoin high school. The students were selected on the basis of scholarship, leadership, participation in school activities, and journalistic performance.

Miss Hough, active in various school organizations, is news editor of Red Bird Notes, student newspaper at the West Frankfort school.

Steh is a sports writer for the Tiger Tattler, student newspaper at the Herrin high school, and participates in other school activities.

Rolando's field is photography for the Magnavox, student newspaper at the Du Quoin high school. All students rank high in scholarship.

Any high school holding membership in the Southern Illinois High School Press association is eligible to nominate one candidate for a maximum of five scholarships available from the SIU Journalism department, according to D. Wayne Rowland, SIU assistant professor of journalism and acting director of the association. High school principals determine the need of picking the nominees.

Thinking It Over

By Robert L. Dieffenbacher, D. D.
Written for NEA Service

Whenever some charity is in dire need of support or faces a crisis in expanding its service to mankind, it has to raise funds to pay the necessary bills. People are interested in seeing that the work is done and that society is served but they like to have someone else pay the costs.

There seems to be some special pain associated with giving to others and no pain involved if selfish desires are satisfied.

If people feel that they are getting something for themselves they are willing to give reasonable amounts without objecting.

As a result, our charitable campaigns are sugar-coated and people do not know they are giving. They pay large amounts for worthless white elephants. They buy tickets for shows where a celebrity appears momentarily. They drive colored nails in pictures on bleachers at amateur shows.

Of course there is nothing wrong with the amateur shows and with much of the sugar coating. The amazing problem is that people do not really want to give for the sake of giving.

They do not really want to share what they have with others unless they fool themselves into thinking they have received more than the joy of giving.

PTA Membership Passes 10 Million

Passing of the ten million mark, with a gain of 721,070 members in the last year, is the highlight of the annual membership report released today by the National Congress of Parents and Teachers. A membership growth in P. T. A. membership will add a triumphant note to the 60th annual convention of the Congress, to be held in San Francisco, May 20-23. Total membership now numbers 10,130,352.

Every state branch of the National Congress reported an increase. California maintains its lead of a year ago, with 1,529,756 members, representing a gain of 8 per cent. Ohio and Illinois are again in second and third places. A 7 per cent increase brings Ohio's total to 657,829 members, and Illinois' gain of 6 per cent brings the total for that state to 618,422.

Mollet Blunt In Soviet Talks

MOSCOW (U.P.) — French Premier Guy Mollet emerged today as a staunch spokesman for the West in his Kremlin talks with Premier Nikolai Bulganin and Communist Party Secretary Nikita S. Khrushchev.

Informed sources said the French leader who in the past has been critical of western foreign policy told the Russians bluntly the West wants peace just as much as the Russians say they do.

Today was the second of four days of "little summit" talks between Mollet, French Foreign Minister Christian Pineau and the top Soviet leaders including Foreign Minister Christian Pineau and the top Soviet leaders including Foreign Minister Vyacheslav M. Molotov.

Informed sources said during 2½ hours of talks Wednesday Mollet hammered away at the need of "confidence" among nations and not questions of disarmament or the reunification of Germany.

He said he recognized that the Russians still do not have confidence in the peaceful intentions of the West, especially the Americans, but also pointed out that the Americans do not have confidence in the Russians.

I miss her when I need a friend,

And soothed my pain.
God grant some day we'll meet again.

Acne Responds to Antibiotic in Test

SYRACUSE, N. Y. — Limited tests of an antibiotic show 90 per cent success of some degree against acne in young people, according to Dr. G. Arnold Cronk who conducted the research involving 72 students at Syracuse University. The condition was eliminated or improved in the cases of 65 subjects.

During the test, which lasted as long as 150 days for some students, patients were given as much as three or four capsules of tetracycline hydrochloride daily. The treatment was used on students suffering from acne vulgaris, the most common type.

Dr. Cronk reported that even acute cases of acne were cleared up after previous treatment of ointments, soaps, lotions, diet changes and ultra-violet treatments. Many of the students had "given up" hope for successful treatment and thought they would have to wait until they outgrew the condition.

Tests will continue on the drug which now is available only through physicians.

Jehovah Witnesses To Hold Convention At Benton May 18-20

The Watchtower Bible and Tract society of New York will sponsor a three-day assembly of Jehovah's Witnesses in Benton, Ill., Friday, Saturday, and Sunday, May 18-20. The convention, which will be held in the Junior high gymnasium, 230 East Church street, is for Bible instruction and concentrated gospel preaching in this area, spokesman for the group, Oral E. Partain, announced today.

All three days of the assembly will consist of morning, afternoon, and evening sessions of the Bible talks, discussions and demonstrations, which are open to the public without charge.

This is the third assembly of Jehovah's Witnesses held in Benton. A congregation was formed in Benton ten years ago. A similar circuit assembly, representing twenty congregations, was held six months ago in Metropolis, which was attended by 800 of Jehovah's Witnesses. It is expected that one thousand or more will attend the Benton gathering.

R. L. Anderson of New York will be the featured speaker of the event. He will appear on the program all three days and will deliver the main public address at 3 p. m. on Sunday, May 20. His subject will be "Consulting God on World Affairs."

Delegates from Illinois, Indiana, and Kentucky will attend this circuit assembly. All persons of good-will are invited to attend.

Dorrisville School Honor Day Friday Will Begin at 1 p. m.

The Honor Day program at Dorrisville school will start at 1 p. m. Friday instead of at 2 p. m., as was originally scheduled. The hour was changed because of the funeral of Jake O'Toole, Dorrisville resident, which will be at 2 p. m. Brose Phillips, school principal, said the program will be over in time for persons to attend the funeral.

Ledford Baptist Church Closes Revival

The Ledford Baptist church closed a two weeks' revival on May 13 with eight professions of faith and ten additions to the church by baptism.

This was one of the best revivals the church has experienced in the past three years, the pastor, Rev. Olen Clarida, stated.

Rev. Howard Todd Taylor of Raleigh was the evangelist and Bro. Rufus Davidson was song leader.

Illinois, in 1790, was divided into only two counties—St. Clair, the western half of the state, and Knox, the eastern half.

Convict is Killed, Several Hurt in Florida Prison Riot

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. —(AP)— A "hard core" of rebellious prisoners at the Florida State Prison Farm rioted today and gunfire from guards left one convict dead and several others injured.

Details of the riot were scanty. Prison Supt. Dewitt Sinclair called Gov. Leroy Collins from the prison at Raiford to report the riot and said at 9:45 a. m. that it apparently was under firm control.

Collins said Sinclair "indicated" that he was slightly injured by flying glass.

Truman Places Roses on Graves of War I Buddies

SURESNE, France (AP) — Harry S. Truman made a solemn pilgrimage today to the white crossed graves of his American comrades who didn't come back from World War I.

It was the first thing the former president did on his first trip to Europe since Potsdam.

He drove out from Paris over sun-dappled roads to the American military cemetery here and walked among the gravestones of American soldiers of two generations.

Obviously full of the thoughts that make old soldiers sadder in the presence of long-fallen friends, Mr. Truman laid two dozen red roses on one gravestone. It marked the place of 24 men who died in World War I and whose names are unknown.

The gesture was a personal offering by the former president, who chose to make it to the unknown dead of the second war.

Suresnes Cemetery contains many graves of his comrades in arms from St. Mihiel and the Argonne Forest — battles of the war of Mr. Truman's own youth.

The American Beauty roses shone richly in the sun while the gray haired former captain of Battery D, 129th Field Artillery, walked slowly past crosses row on row.

His pilgrimage was the start of a full schedule for the day.

Jet Planes to Feature Armed Forces Day at SIU

CARBONDALE, Ill. — Two flights of jet planes will scream over the Southern Illinois university campus Saturday, May 19, as part of Armed Forces Day activities.

Col. Alexander R. MacMillan, commander of the AFROTC detachment at Southern, announced today that arrangements had been made for a flight of three F-80 jet trainers to pass over at 10:52 a. m. and for a flight of F-86 fighters, to make several passes at 2 p. m. to close the ceremonies scheduled for 1:30 p. m. in front of Wheeler Building on the SIU campus.

An Air Force exhibit which features two planes, an F-86 jet fighter and a B-29 bomber, as well as jet engine and other displays will be at the entrance to the campus on Saturday and Sunday. A variety type show will be presented by the AFROTC detachment at 2 p. m. in Shryock Auditorium.

The annual exposition of the Egyptian Council of the Boy Scouts of America will also be at SIU Saturday, with displays set up on the track at McAndrew Stadium. The Scouts will present afternoon and evening shows (3:30 and 7:30 p. m.) featuring the Tsun-Ga-Ni Indian dancers of Carbondale and several other acts.

Revenue Official Says He Advised Criminal Action

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The chief of the Internal Revenue Service's penal division, E. Riley Campbell, testified today he recommended three times the criminal prosecution of Irving Sachs, a St. Louis shoe broker.

Campbell testified in the trial of Matthew J. Connelly, White House aide to former President Truman, T. Lamar Caudle, former chief of the Justice Department's tax division, and Harry I. Schwimmer, an attorney, on charges of conspiring to fix the income tax case against Sachs.

Campbell related he sent the Sachs case to Charles Oliphant, chief counsel of the tax bureau at that time, with a recommendation for prosecution in March, 1948. He said Schwimmer, representing Sachs, asked it be held up for a conference.

At the conference, Campbell said, Schwimmer contended his client should not be prosecuted because of voluntary disclosures by Sachs. Campbell said Schwimmer's claim was studied but rejected and a second recommendation for prosecution was made later in 1948 and the third in 1949.

Trace Oil Shares
The government Wednesday tried to trace oil shares from the hands of Schwimmer to those of Caudle. Schwimmer was quoted by a witness as saying he planned to give the shares because he wanted "to do something nice for Mr. Caudle."

The testimony came from attorney David L. Sheffrey of Kansas City, Mo., who helped Schwimmer represent Sachs.

He told the federal court jury he told Schwimmer he would be "crazy" to try to give the shares to Caudle, then head of the Justice Department tax division.

"I said that if Mr. Caudle accepted them from him, he would accept it from anybody. And if he accepted it, it would be disclosed," Sheffrey said.

"I told him to sell the shares and take his profit or loss and be done with it."

Shortly afterward, Sheffrey testified, Schwimmer told him he had "got rid of that stuff." Asked to clarify that statement, Sheffrey said he understood Schwimmer had either sold the oil shares or had them transferred to his own name.

Eisenhower Talk Dedicates New GM Technical Center

WARREN, Mich. — (AP) — The 100-million-dollar General Motors Corp. technical center was dedicated by President Eisenhower Wednesday to "new attacks on the technological frontier."

The 320-acre center, its 25 modern design buildings equipped with the latest and best research equipment in scientific and engineering fields, had been planned for 11 years. The building was under construction for seven years.

President Eisenhower spoke from the White House in a dedication speech carried by closed circuit television to the center here and to ceremonies held in 61 other cities where General Motors has plants.

The president said the history of America is a history of frontiers, and each frontier has been a "challenge to Americans to dare more, to do more, to go forward faster and on a broader front."

He said beyond the technological frontier lies "better and fuller employment, opportunities for people to demonstrate yet again the value of a system based on the dignity of the human being, and on their free opportunities of life."

Israel was voted into the United Nations on May 11, 1949.

Faith of 'Myrta' Raises Funds for Bald Knob Cross

PIGS!!

Story of Faith And a Vision

By Guyla Moreland (Cairo, Illinois)

This is a modern version of the parable of the workman who, on being given the talents, multiplied them . . . only the workman is a widow, Myrta Clutts of Cobden, Illinois . . . and the talents are not pieces of precious metal—they are pigs.

But we are a way ahead of our story. When Wayman Presley, the mail carrier, with the Rev. William Lively, his friend, visioned the great Cross on Bald Knob mountain, he undertook to raise the purchase price of the site from people of the common walks of life. Myrta, hearing of his efforts, volunteered a "Faith" pledge of $100. Her children objected. "Where will we get the $100?" they asked. Myrta replied—"I have the faith."

Now one of Myrta's few possessions was an old sow. One day the sow farrowed. Myrta looked at the soft, squirming mass of squealing new born pigs. It seemed there was an awful lot of them . . . she counted—twenty one. There must be some mistake. This was more than twice the average litter. She counted them again . . . twenty one. Never before had the sow given such a litter. "An answer to my faith," Myrta told her children.

Already the pigs were pushing and shoving for a nipple. They were born hungry. Twelve nipples were all the sow had. That meant that some of them would stay hungry. Myrta knew enough about pigs to know that the least ones are shoved out and stunted, even where there are a couple of extra pigs . . . but 9 extras—why, they'd just starve if she didn't figure something to do.

The old sow became restless. She didn't want to be bothered. So Myrta went to the house. Of course she could rig up bottles and nipples—but fill nine bottles four or five times a day? She'd get nothing else done.

Then she thought of Flossie, her mongrel dog that had just lost her puppies—just maybe she'd take them.

When Myrta went to get the extra pigs, the sow had rolled over and killed three of them—still leaving six extras. So she caught that many in spite of the snorts and warning protests from Old Betsy, the sow . . . poor little things—they were so hungry that they nudged her hands and arms, blindly seeking a nipple.

Her dog sniffed at the queer shaped animals Myrta put down beside her. They had a foreign smell—not at all like her puppies. But they set to work and were soon shoving and sucking and their little soft sides filled out and soon the pigs slept where they had fed all curled up against her. She snuggled protectingly around them. She raised every one of them.

The sow also raised her twelve. Myrta sold 14 of the hogs, paid her $100 pledge and had more than $400 left. The remaining 4 were kept for brood sows. Now twenty sow and their pigs live on the little hillside farm of Myrta's—all descendants of Old Betsy.

Myrta, remembering her successful Faith pledge, pondered,

OLD BETSY and her pigs, with Myrta's home in background. Below is her dog, Flossie, nursing the extra pigs.

"Isn't there some way these talents can be multiplied for the Cross?"

Warren Hastings of Mounds, president of the Bald Knob Christian Foundation, and such men as Postmaster William Planert of Unity and Farm Bureau agents of the area are enthusiastic about the idea of further multiplying Myrta's talents and the slogan "Raise a pig for the Cross" is rapidly catching on.

The first pigs have been placed with farmers . . . Others will soon be ready. Offspring from these will again be placed in an ever-expanding program. Religious leaders are elated with this practical method of teaching Christian brotherhood—youngsters will learn the joy of working and giving together. The great, lighted Cross will have a warm personal meaning to them all and its influence for good will not only be felt throughout their lives, but for generations to come.

Sponsors of the Cross project expect funds from the rapidly expanding pig program to be sufficient, when added to those already coming in, to be enough to build the Cross within three years.

A new sign on U. S. highway in Cobden invites visitors to Myrta's

Observance of Salvation Army Week May 20-27

National Salvation Army Week, a period for celebrating the organization's progress in helping the nation's unfortunates, will start May 20 in hundreds of communities throughout the United States.

An announcement by President Eisenhower, followed by similar declarations from other high government officials, including governors of most states and mayors of many cities, will set the stage for the nationwide observance.

Noting that The Salvation Army in the last ten years had provided 100,000,000 free meals, or the equivalent of one meal for more than half of the country's population, National Commander Donald McMillan reaffirmed The Salvation Army's twin goals of physical regeneration and spiritual rebirth of the nation's unfortunates.

As in The Salvation Army's beginning in this country—its first one-air meeting was held in New York in 1880—the organization's emphasis has been on spiritual help to the lowest-income segment of the population whose members have few churches, family or other supporting relationships. Last year Salvation Army officers and soldiers conducted indoor religious services attended by 18,657,423 persons.

Other statistics on the organization's activities reflecting help given to millions of people, will be presented during National Salvation Army Week, May 20-27, at Salvation Army "open houses," and in other gatherings.

Assistance in catastrophes such as floods, storms, fires and wrecks is being provided on a nationwide scale by The Salvation Army. The organization cooperates closely with other organizations in such disasters, particularly in the operation of its growing fleet of mobile canteens.

Records of The Salvation Army for 1955 show that lassies of The Army's League of Mercy visited more than two million persons in hospitals and homes for the aged, and that spiritual leadership and recreational opportunities were offered to almost four million boys and girls in Salvation Army youth centers.

Editorial — BY BRUCE BLOSSAT

It is becoming clear from recent primary returns that President Eisenhower's popularity is no myth in the eastern states.

Not long ago he ran strong in New Jersey, rolling up more than 300,000 votes. This was three-fourths of the total he amassed four years ago, but then he had opposition from the late Senator Taft and this time he was unopposed.

Now, in Pennsylvania, he has come close to matching his 863,000 vote showing of 1952. Then he had formal competition from Harold Stassen, who polled 120,000, and Taft carried more than 100,000 write-ins. This year, the only spur was taken opposition from Senator Knowland, no longer an avowed candidate.

Up in Massachusetts the President picked up 50,000 write-ins in a primary that does not authorize formal entries. While this did not compare with his substantial vote of 1952, once again he had opposition from Taft then and had no competition this time.

Massachusetts is well known for light primary turnouts, so the smallness of this year's vote should occasion no surprise in view of the lack of a contest.

Taking all these results together, they must be said to indicate Eisenhower is still in high favor in three important eastern industrial states which command large electoral votes in the fall election.

If there are any measurable defections from his banner—the sort some returns suggest may occur in the farm belt—they are not apparent in these eastern zones from the primary figures at hand.

In all three places, of course, the President ran substantially ahead of his Democratic rivals, though it would be risky to attach much significance to this. He wasn't running against them.

None of the Democrats did much to advance his cause in the Pennsylvania and Massachusetts affairs.

Stevenson ran up a healthy 550,000 or more in Pennsylvania, but against no formal opposition. Kefauver's write-in showing was insignificant.

In Massachusetts, Stevenson as a write-in prospect could muster no more than an approximate 20,000, considerably less than went to a Massachusetts favorite son, Rep. John McCormack.

The Kefauver people had been urging voters to support the congressman, so the test has little meaning for the Tennessee senator.

The modestly scaled Alaska primary, first in history, gave Stevenson a two-to-one triumph over Kefauver, but the result must be rated just a small straw in the wind.

As the days pass it is plainer and plainer that the Oregon, Florida and California meetings of the two top Democrats are the real "stand or fall" showings. Until then there is unlikely to be a decisive event on either side.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

DREW PEARSON Says: Indonesia President Is Nervous About Washington; Lyndon Johnson Faces Test On Oil Depletion; Ex-Senator McKay Faces Stiff Race In Oregon.

WASHINGTON. — The welcome accorded foreign dignitaries as they drive down elm-shaded Constitution Avenue was never more important than today when President Eisenhower receives the president of the youngest but third largest republic in the world—Soekarno of Indonesia.

President Soekarno has been a bit nervous about this trip; just as his country has been nervous about the precarious political path it has trod in these days when every eastern nation is besieged and beleaguered by communism. Before leaving for Washington, Soekarno went to his birthplace in East Java to ask his mother's blessing on the pilgrimage. And he visited his father's grave in the Jakarta Moslem cemetery to pray for success in Washington and strengthened friendship with the U. S. A.

It was the U. S. A., as he and other Indonesians well remember, which played such a large part in winning independence for the young republic. The battle cries that inspired the Indonesian revolution against the long colonial rule of the Dutch were similar to those of 1776. Indonesian patriots even featured pictures of George Washington and Thomas Jefferson on banners and postage stamps.

The final coup de grace in winning Indonesian independence occurred when Matty Fox, New York motion picture executive and friend of Indonesia, together with Joseph K. Borkin of Washington persuaded various senators to cut off Marshall Plan funds to the Dutch if those funds were used in the war against Indonesia. Since then, Borkin has sometimes been called by Indonesians "the American father of Indonesian independence." He shares paternity with Sen. Owen Brewster of Maine, now retired, who circulated the Senate petition to cut off Dutch funds. That's part of the story behind President Eisenhower's gesture in sending his personal plane all the way to Hawaii this week to bring the President of one of the key republics of the Far East to Washington.

TEXAS OR U. S. A.?

Senator Lyndon Johnson has come back to Washington with new stature, even if his office staff did have to enlist elevator operators and hired help from the Capitol building to get a welcoming crowd at the airport.

He is also full of fight, and when Lyndon fights for the U. S. A. rather than just the state of Texas he is superb. It's when he forgets that Texas joined the United States and figures that the United States joined Texas that he gets into trouble.

Lyndon's first test over which comes first, the United States or Texas, faces him immediately, with the appointment of a senator to fill the vacancy of the late Senator Barkley on the potent Finance committee. This is the committee which passes on tax laws and which could change the Texas-prized 27½ percent oil depletion allowance which puts the oil-gas men ahead of the rest of the nation when it comes to tax.

The senator with top seniority to take Barkley's place among those who want the post, is Paul Douglas of Illinois, former economics professor of the University of Chicago and the most skilled economist-finance expert in the Senate.

However, Douglas is dead opposed to the tax favors given the oil-gas industry. And hitherto,

Johnson has skillfully kept such opponents off the tax-writing Finance committee. At the moment he has been discreetly sounding out other senators to see if he can find someone with more seniority than Douglas who would like the job.

Seniority is a time-honored custom in the Senate. It was why race-baiting Sen. Eastland of Mississippi became chairman of the Judiciary committee when all Democrats knew it would lose them votes.

So Senate colleagues are watching to see whether seniority or Texas oil men will rank first when it comes to filling the vacancy on the Finance committee.

IKE'S CANDIDATE

When the Secretary of the Interior Doug McKay bowed to Ike's wishes and consented to run for the Senate against Wayne Morse in Oregon he had no idea he would have to run twice.

He figured he would run against Morse in November and the would be all. The boys in the White House said that Ike was making his sacrifice and that he, McKay should make his too, didn't tell him that he would face a divided Republican party.

However, that is exactly what has happened. McKay has to go through the gruelling ordeal of two elections. One is this week when he faces a primary fight with his fellow Republican, Philip Hitchcock. The next, if he wins, will be against Morse in November.

Most of the Republican candidates in the Oregon Senate race bowed out immediately they learned that McKay was resigning from the Interior Department in order to make the race. However, one man, Hitchcock, stayed in, and has been putting up a terrific battle against the Eisenhower-designated candidate.

It looks like anybody's race on Friday. However, because of loyalty to Eisenhower in GOP ranks, it's believed McKay in the end will win.

INDONESIAN MERRY-GO-ROUND

Indonesia is a major oil source, the second producer of tin in the world and first in the production of rubber, quinine and black pepper—Indonesia has a multi-party political system and a constitution guaranteeing freedom of speech, press, religion and equal rights for men and women of all races. The major parties are Moslem, Nationalist, Socialist, Catholic and Labor. Soekarno (he doesn't use a formal first name) is an anti-Communist independent. A former engineer, 54 years old, he was jailed several times by the Dutch for "revolutionary" activity. Under the Dutch, his country had a shocking death and illiteracy rate, but Soekarno has reduced both. A political progressive, Soekarno clings to the five philosophical ("Pantjasila") principles of Indonesia: belief in God, humanitarianism, nationalism, democracy and social justice. Soekarno sums it up: "The belief in God and free choice of religion affirms the democratic principle of freedom of worship. Democracy gains strength and meaning when it is coupled with social justice in economic matters. These two, in turn, are incomplete without a humanitarian regard for the rights and interests of one's fellow man."

Illinois Expects to Attract Record Number of Vacationers and Tourists

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. — Illinois will attract more vacationers and tourists this year than ever before in history. Hotels, motels, restaurants, railroads, bus lines and retailers catering to the traveling public will enjoy booming business in 1956. Such were the predictions made today by Carl G. Hodges, superintendent of the Division of Department Reports, who also directs the state's travel promotion activities.

In 1955 Illinois ranked fifth in popularity as a vacation land, being topped only by New York, Florida, California and Michigan. Illinois' growing popularity began with a "tell and sell Illinois" program suggested by Governor William G. Stratton and the adoption by the General Assembly of the "Land of Lincoln" slogan on automobile license plates in 1953 and as official state slogan in 1955.

In 1954 nearly three million automobiles began to carry it as a "travelling billboard" to all parts of the nation. Circulation of a sound-color movie, "Illinois-Land of Lincoln," to schools, libraries and service clubs from coast to coast and distribution of direct-mail literature took the selling points of Illinois into all 48 states. A modest advertising campaign in the metropolitan newspapers of nine adjacent states was begun.

There is no way to estimate the number who came to all sections of Illinois as a direct result of that program, but attendance at state parks and memorials jumped from less than seven million in 1953 to more than nine million in 1954.

Advertising for 1955 was increased to cover 12 states and attendance at state parks and memorials to nearly 10 million persons.

This advertising carried keyed coupons and after the season was over a questionnaire was sent to all persons who had requested vacation material. Of those requesting material 22 per cent actually came to Illinois. Of this number 90 per cent traveled by car, five per cent by train and two per cent by bus, and the remainder by miscellaneous means. For the first time, the survey showed, some vacationers came by plane, train or bus and then hired rental cars at their destination. Once all cars at their destination 45 per cent stayed at motels, 24 per cent with friends and 18 per cent in hotels while the remainder camped out or used trailer parks.

Hodges said the movie distribution and literature mailing program will be continued in 1956 but the newspaper advertising program will be expanded to include about 50 ads in 15 different states.
